July Monthly Session

“Clean Up and Flourish or Pile Up and Perish” Increasing population levels, booming economy, rapid urbanization and the rise in community living standards have greatly accelerated the waste generation rate in developing countries. Municipalities, usually responsible for waste management in the cities, have the challenge to provide an effective and efficient system to the inhabitants.

All living organisms create waste, but humans create far more waste than other species. Women generate most of the kitchen wastes and dispose off waste from homes. Waste management is important because improperly stored refuse can cause health, safety and economic problems.

This month we have invited our very own IASAP Member Ms Jennifer Kumar to enlighten us how to prevent damaging the Earth’s ecosystems and maintain a high quality of life for our planet. So be there @ below details to know more on how to manage and store our waste efficiently and safely as this is our Social responsibility
