February Monthly Lecture

Dear Ladies,

A strong bond between two or more people refers to interpersonal relationship. Attraction between individuals brings them close to each other and eventually results in a strong interpersonal relationship. An interpersonal relationship can develop between individuals working together in the same organization, people working in the same team, relationship between a man and a woman, relationship with immediate family members and relatives, relationship of a child with his parents, relationship between friends.

An interpersonal relationship is a strong, deep, or close association or acquaintance between two or more people that may range in duration from brief to enduring. This association may be based on inference, love, solidarity, regular business interactions, or some other type of social commitment.

This month we have invited Mr DNB Singh who is a renowned management consultant, executive trainer and a professional counselor in behavioral science. With a core competency to motivate, energise and empower people to superlative performance, Mr Singh is sought after to catalyze organizations with their transformation process to generate "Star Performers" He has also authored "Killer instinct" which has charged many young executives to imbibe the winner attitude in the work place. So Ladies don't miss out and be there, to get totally charged up and transformed and bring out the star in you!
