

JULY 2021

Dear Members,

We must accept finite disappointment, but never lose infinite hope

You must have probably heard from a friend, a relative or a colleague who have lost their job and expressed their stressful experience they are going through. Losing a job is almost like losing someone that you love. When you receive those calls, it can be tempting to offer words of optimism or to look for silver linings....It's only human.

Many of us are facing such insecurities at this point of time, but there is hope if we learn to better deal with uncontrollable circumstances and an uncontrollable future.

Swastika Mukherjee, with her 16 years of experience on critical aspects of Business through Marketing Research and Communications will take us through "Challenges and Opportunities for Women in the New Normal" as she shares her own experience.

Ladies joined us in large numbers to look for that silver lining....
